

Almost an Island?

A series of workshops and activities exploring the Greenwich Peninsula through words, sounds and stories

Drop-in workshops

Wednesdays 1, 8, 15 & 22 October

6.30pm–8pm

River Way Cottages, next to The Pilot Inn

Writers in residence Aoife Mannix and Sarah Butler are creating a soundscape that will represent the lives and stories of those connected with the Greenwich Peninsula. Come along to one or more of our creative writing workshops and be a part of this exciting exploration of what the Greenwich Peninsula means to you. Refreshments will be provided. The workshops are free and no experience is necessary

Drop-in creative day for all the family

Monday 27 October

10.30am–4pm

Greenwich Millennium Village Visitor Centre,
Maurer Court, Teal St (off John Harrison Way)

Join one of our word walks, starting at 11am and 2pm (each lasting approx 1 hour), or call in during the day to see the work we've already created – find out more about the Peninsula's history – take part in our activities – have a cup of tea – tell us your stories of the area. Free, no experience necessary

Aoife and Sarah will be blogging about the project at www.almostaniland.blogspot.com

The work created as part of Almost An Island will be presented at a public event in November 2008. Keep an eye on the blog for details.

spreadtheword

In collaboration with
Art on the Greenwich
Peninsula

Supported by

The National Lottery[®]

through Awards for All

